

AllClear Identity Theft Monitoring

AllClear Identity Theft Monitoring is a unique service that alerts customers about compromised data, including credit card numbers, email addresses or usernames with passwords, and Social Security numbers.

We work in partnership with the National Cyber-Forensics and Training Alliance (NCFTA), which runs a global clearinghouse for stolen credentials. Federal law enforcement agencies, other government agencies, businesses, and academia find compromised consumer data through research and fraud prevention work and report the information to the NCFTA.

Why AllClear Identity Theft Monitoring

AllClear Identity Theft Monitoring alerts customers of stolen information, and specially trained Investigators help customers protect or repair their identity.

Alerts

When we receive compromised data from the NCFTA that matches our customers' data, we alert them so that they can take action.

Identity Repair

Identity repair is the most important service we offer. When your customers' information is compromised, a dedicated AllClear Investigator acts as their advocate to initiate the dispute process, help recover financial losses, and restore their identity to its pre-fraud state. This service is included with AllClear Identity Theft Monitoring.

Who is the NCFTA?

Formed as a nonprofit by the FBI in the early 2000s, the organization allows field agents and other investigators to sit alongside analysts from banks and other companies to identify cyberthreats.¹
